Kollaborative Praxis Choreographie:

Processing Choreography Elizabeth Waterhouse, 2022-03-07 Told from the perspective of the dancers Processing Choreography Thinking with William Forsythe's Duo is an ethnography that reconstructs the dancers' activity within William Forsythe's Duo project. The book is written legibly for readers in dance studies, the social sciences, and dance practice. Considering how the choreography of Duo emerged through practice and changed over two decades of history (1996-2018), Elizabeth Waterhouse offers a nuanced picture of creative cooperation and institutionalized process. She presents a compelling vision of choreography as a nexus of people, material practices, contexts, and relations. As a former Forsythe dancer herself, the author provides novel insights into this choreographic community.

Collaboration in Performance Practice Noyale Colin, Stefanie Sachsenmaier, 2016-04-29 Collaboration between artists has been practised for centuries, yet over recent decades the act of collaborating has taken different meanings. This publication examines cultural, philosophical, and political issues tied to specific instances of collaborative practice in the performing arts. Leading scholars and practitioners review historical developments of collaborative practice and reveal what it means to work together in creative contexts at the beginning of the twenty-first century. Key questions addressed include how artists are developing new ways of working together in response to contemporary economic trends, the significance of collaborating across culture, and what opportunities are apparent when co-working between genres and disciplines. Noyale Colin and Stefanie Sachsenmaier present these perspectives in three thematic sections which interrogate the premises of collective intentions, the working strategies of current practitioners, as well as the role of failure and compromise in collaborative modes of creative work. This volume is an invaluable resource for scholars, practitioners, and those interested in contemporary artistic methods of working.

Independent Theatre in Contemporary Europe Manfred Brauneck, ITI Zentrum Deutschland, 2017-03-15 Over the past 20 years, European theatre underwent fundamental changes in terms of aesthetic focus, institutional structure, and in its position in society. The impetus for these changes was provided by a new generation in the independent theatre scene. This book brings together studies on the state of independent theatre in different European countries, focusing on the fields of dance and performance, children and youth theatre, theatre and migration, and post-migrant theatre. Additionally, it includes essays on experimental musical theatre and different cultural policies for independent theatre scenes in a range of European countries.

Emerging Bodies Gabriele Klein, Sandra Noeth, 2014-04-15 The concept of worldmaking is based on the idea that the world is not given but rather produced through language, actions, ideas, and perception. This collection of essays takes a closer look at various hybrid and disparate worlds related to dance and choreography. Coming from a broad range of different backgrounds and disciplines, the authors inquire into the ways of producing dance worlds through artistic practice, discourse, and media, choreographic form, and dance material. The essays in this volume critically reflect the predominant topos of dance as something fleeting and ephemeral, an embodiment of the Other in modernity. Moreover, they demonstrate that there is more than just one universal world of dance but rather a multitude of interrelated dance worlds with more emerging every day

Performance and Posthumanism Christel Stalpaert, Kristof van Baarle, Laura Karreman, 2021-09-02 Recent technological and scientific developments have demonstrated a condition that has already long been upon us We have entered a posthuman era an assertion shared by an increasing number of thinkers such as N Katherine Hayles Rosi Braidotti Donna Haraway Bruno Latour Richard Grusin and Bernard Stiegler The performing arts have reacted to these developments by increasingly opening up their traditionally human domain to non human others Both philosophy and performing arts thus question what it means to be human from a posthumanist point of view and how the agency of non humans be they technology objects animals or other forms of being works on both an ontological and performative level The contributions in this volume brings together scholars dramaturgs and artists uniting their reflections on the consequences of the posthuman condition for creative practices spectatorship and knowledge

Being in Contact: Encountering a Bare Body Mariella Greil, 2021-03-22 This choreographed book is dedicated to the phenomenon of the bare body in contemporary performance This work of artistic research draws on philosophical biopolitical and ethical discourses relevant to the appearance of bare bodies in choreography setting a framework for a reflexive movement between affect and ethics sensuous address and response Acts of exposure and concealment are culturally situated and anchored and are examined for their methodological and nanopolitical significance The concepts of anarchic responsibility and choreo ethics lead to a reevaluation of contact relationship and solidarity Choreography is thus understood as a complex field of revelatory experiences based on ecologies of aesthetic perception and ethico political agency
