Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility UN-Habitat, 2013-10-30 Urban transport systems worldwide are faced by a multitude of challenges Among the most visible of these are the traffic gridlocks experienced on city roads and highways all over the world The prescribed solution to transport problems in most cities has thus been to build more infrastructures for cars with a limited number of cities improving public transport systems in a sustainable manner However a number of challenges faced by urban transport systems such as greenhouse gas emissions noise and air pollution and road traffic accidents do not necessarily get solved by the construction of new infrastructure Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility argues that the development of sustainable urban transport systems requires a conceptual leap The purpose of transportation and mobility is to gain access to destinations activities services and goods Thus access is the ultimate objective of transportation As a result urban planning and design should focus on how to bring people and places together by creating cities that focus on accessibility rather than simply increasing the length of urban transport infrastructure or increasing the movement of people or goods Urban form and the functionality of the city are therefore a major focus of this report which highlights the importance of integrated land use and transport planning This new report of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme UN Habitat the world's leading authority on urban issues provides some thought provoking insights and policy recommendations on how to plan and design sustainable urban mobility systems The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date global assessment of human settlements conditions and trends Preceding issues of the report have addressed such topics as Cities in a Globalizing World The Challenge of Slums Financing Urban Shelter Enhancing Urban Safety and Security Planning Sustainable Cities and Cities and Climate Change

Cunha, Annemiek Vink, Lenaick Menot, Miguel Caetano, Matthias Haeckel, 2025-09-24

After more than 20 years mining of mineral resources such as polymetallic nodules and massive sulfides in the deep sea is back on the agenda of many countries and companies in their quest for metals for the energy transition and high tech products In this course the past 10 years have seen an immense increase of exploration licenses issued by the International Seabed Authority ISA which administers and controls activities at the ocean floor beyond national jurisdiction generally termed the Area The seven pilot investors have renewed their exploration licenses in the Clarion Clipperton Zone CCZ for another five year term after which they will need to apply for an exploitation license or return their contracted claim Thus ISA is currently developing the regulatory framework for the exploitation of seafloor mineral resources which includes amongst several other issues legislation to ensure effective protection of the marine environment from harmful effects according to UNCLOS article 145 In order to support decision making for ISA's regulations the European project MiningImpact funded through the Joint Programming Initiative Healthy and Productive Seas and Oceans JPIO has carried out extensive environmental research in the eastern exploration license areas for polymetallic nodules in the CCZ. At the heart of the project were two research cruises which established the environmental baselines in the German and Belgian license areas of the CCZ and independently monitored the first test of an industrial prototype nodule collector vehicle conducted by the Belgian company DEME GSR. The monitoring program focused on studying the direct impacts in the trial areas and the dispersal and redeposition of the suspended sediment plume. Topics covered during the monitoring included habitat characterization, natural variability, disturbance effects, temporal evolution, faunal communities, and the development of techniques for rapid biodiversity assessment. The MiningImpact project also initiated a restoration experiment with artificial hard substrates which aims at exploring the possibility to enable and accelerate the recolonization of areas affected by mining.
