Designs for Science Literacy
American Association for the Advancement of Science, 2001-03-22 The call for science curriculum reform has been made over and over again for much of the twentieth century Arguments have been made that the content of the curriculum is not appropriate for meeting the individual and social needs of people living in the modern world that the curriculum has become overstuffed with topics and does not serve students especially well and above all that the curriculum does not generate the student learning it is expected to produce The latest volume in a continuing series of publications from the AAAS designed to reform science education Designs for Science Literacy presupposes that curriculum reform must be considerably more extensive and fundamental than the tinkering with individual courses and subjects that has been going on for decades Designs deals with the critical issues involved in assembling sound instructional materials into a new coherent K 12 whole The book pays special attention to the need to link science oriented studies to the arts and humanities and also proposes how to align the curriculum with an established set of learning goals while preserving the American tradition of local responsibility for the curriculum itself If fundamental curriculum reform is ever to occur a new process for creating alternatives will have to be developed Designs for Science Literacy provides the groundwork for such a process

Doyle, 2023-04-25 An urgent examination of the world barreling toward a new Cold War By 1990 the first Cold War was ending The Berlin Wall had fallen and the Warsaw Pact was crumbling following Russia's lead cries for democracy were being embraced by a young Chinese populace The post Cold War years were a time of immense hope and possibility They heralded an opportunity for creative cooperation among nations an end to ideological strife perhaps even the beginning of a stable international order of liberal peace But the days of optimism are over As renowned international relations expert Michael Doyle makes hauntingly clear we now face the devastating specter of a new Cold War this time orbiting the trilateral axes of Russia the United States and China and exacerbated by new weapons of cyber warfare and more insidious forms of propaganda Such a conflict at this phase in our global history would have catastrophic repercussions Doyle argues stymieing global collaboration efforts that are key to reversing climate change preventing the next pandemic and securing nuclear nonproliferation The recent devastating invasion of Ukraine is both an example and an augur of the costs that lay in wait However there is hope Putin is not Stalin Xi is not Mao and no autocrat is a modern Hitler There is also an unprecedented level of shared global interest in prosperity and protecting the planet from environmental disaster While it is unlikely that the United States Russia and China will ever establish a warm peace there are significant reasonable compromises between nations that can lead to a détente While the future remains very much in doubt the elegant set of accords and non subversion pacts Doyle proposes in this book may very well save the world      Merrill Earth Science Ralph M.
