The Wall Street Journal ,1992     Consumer Lending in France and America Gunnar Trumbull,2014-08-11 Why did America embrace consumer credit over the course of the twentieth century when most other countries did not How did American policy makers by the late twentieth century come to believe that more credit would make even poor families better off This book traces the historical emergence of modern consumer lending in America and France If Americans were profligate in their borrowing the French were correspondingly frugal Comparison of the two countries reveals that America's love affair with credit was not primarily the consequence of its culture of consumption as many writers have observed nor directly a consequence of its less generous welfare state It emerged instead from evolving coalitions between fledgling consumer lenders seeking to make their business socially acceptable and a range of non governmental groups working to promote public welfare labor and minority rights In France where a similar coalition did not emerge consumer credit continued to be perceived as economically regressive and socially risky     Ebony ,1988-03 EBONY is the flagship magazine of Johnson Publishing Founded in 1945 by John H Johnson it still maintains the highest global circulation of any African American focused magazine     Banking Information Index ,2005     Bay Area Consumers' Checkbook ,2005
