

3. Marking points

3.1 Marking of lists

This applies to questions requiring a set number of responses, but for which students have provided extra responses. The general principle to be followed in such a situation is that 'right + wrong = wrong'.

Each error / contradiction negates each correct response. So, if the number of errors / contradictions equals or exceeds the number of marks available for the question, no marks can be awarded.

However, responses considered to be neutral (indicated as * in example 1) are not penalised.

Example 1: What is the pH of an acidic solution?

[1 mark]

Student	Response	Marks awarded
1	green, 5	0
2	red*, 5	1
3	red*, 8	0

Example 2: Name two magnetic materials.

[2 marks]

Student	Response	Marks awarded
1	iron, steel, aluminium, copper	2

3.2 Marking of questions requiring a list

For questions requiring a specified number of responses (maximum of 10 responses) awarded marks are given according to the number of responses given. For questions requiring two marks for the given number of responses, a correct answer in the position of the question, such as first or second, is appropriate.

3.3 Marking questions requiring calculation

Marking should be awarded for each stage of the calculation, completed correctly. An incorrect answer should not affect their working. An incorrect answer to a calculation question may also arise from their working. If a calculation leads to a given correctly, the relevant marks may be awarded.

Full marks are only awarded for a correct final answer from correct working.

3.4 Interpretation of 'or'

Answers using the word 'or' should be given credit only if it is clear that this is either or the correct answer.
