Chemical Control Michael Crowley, 2016-01-26 This thoroughly researched study highlights the international community's failure to regulate contemporary state research development marketing and or deployment of riot control agents and incapacitating chemical agent weapons Political Standards Karthik Ramanna, 2015-11-09 Prudent verifiable and timely corporate accounting is a bedrock of our modern capitalist system In recent years however the rules that govern corporate accounting have been subtly changed in ways that compromise these core principles to the detriment of the economy at large These changes have been driven by the private agendas of certain corporate special interests aided selectively and sometimes unwittingly by arguments from business academia With Political Standards Karthik Ramanna develops the notion of thin political markets to describe a key problem facing technical rule making in corporate accounting and beyond When standard setting boards attempt to regulate the accounting practices of corporations they must draw on a small pool of qualified experts but those experts almost always have strong commercial interests in the outcome Meanwhile standard setting rarely enjoys much attention from the general public This absence of accountability Ramanna argues allows corporate managers to game the system In the profit maximization framework of modern capitalism the only practicable solution is to reframe managerial norms when participating in thin political markets Political Standards will be an essential resource for understanding how the rules of the game are set whom they inevitably favor and how the process can be changed for a better capitalism The Coming of Age of Insulin-Signalling in Insects Colin G.H. Steel, Xanthe

Vafopoulou, 2015-01-28 The new millennium has seen a major paradigm shift in insect endocrinology Great advancements are being made which establish that nutrition and growth play a central role in diverse cellular and physiological phenomena during insect development and reproduction Nutrition affects rates of growth and is mainly regulated by the function of the pathway of insulin insulin like growth factor signalling This pathway is highly conserved across species and ultimately regulates rates of cell growth and proliferation in growing organs Insulin and insulin like peptides ILPs are some of the best studied hormones in the animal kingdom and all share a common structural motif and initiate a wide range of closely similar physiological processes in higher organisms In insects nutrition via circulating sugar promotes release of ILPs from brain neurosecretory cells into the haemolymph which act on peripheral tissues and stimulate protein synthesis and cell growth

Therefore insect ILPs are common mediators between nutrition and growth in insects and are functionally analogous to mammalian insulin. The 1980s and 1990s witnessed great progress in elucidation of the physiological and molecular mechanism of action of numerous insect hormones involved in regulation of growth, development, reproduction and metabolism. But the signals for the initiation or termination of controlled events remained largely unknown. ILPs were first identified from the silkworm Bombyx mori and were named bombyxins, but related peptides were soon found in numerous species and their functions elucidated. The insulin signalling pathway is now recognized as a central factor in the timing of cell proliferation, growth, longevity, reproduction and reproductive diapause as well as social behaviour. Recent work has revealed that the insulin signalling pathway is closely integrated with that of various other hormones including ecdysteroids, the juvenile hormones and neuropeptides such as prothoracicotropic hormone. In addition, the pathway is also linked with both circadian, daily and photoperiodic seasonal clocks, potentially providing a basis for its timing function. This Research Topic aims to provide the only current collection of recent advances on insect ILPs. We encouraged submissions on all areas related to identification, characterization, regulation and physiological functions of insect ILPs. We welcomed both full and short reviews and original research articles.

The Microbial Regulation of Global Biogeochemical Cycles Johannes Rousk, Per Bengtson, 2014-10-17 Global biogeochemical cycles of carbon and nutrients are increasingly affected by human activities. So far, modeling has been central for our understanding of how this will affect ecosystem functioning and the biogeochemical cycling of carbon and nutrients. These models have been forced to adopt a reductive approach built on the flow of carbon and nutrients between pools that are difficult or even impossible to verify with empirical evidence. Furthermore, while some of these models include the response in physiology, ecology and biogeography of primary producers to environmental change, the microbial part of the ecosystem is generally poorly represented or lacking altogether. The principal pool of carbon and nutrients in soil is the organic matter. The turnover of this reservoir is governed by microorganisms that act as catalytic converters of environmental conditions into biogeochemical cycling of carbon and nutrients. The dependency of this conversion activity on individual environmental conditions such as pH, moisture and temperature has been frequently studied. On the contrary, only rarely have the microorganisms involved in carrying out the processes been identified and one of the biggest challenges for advancing our understanding of biogeochemical processes is to identify the microorganisms carrying out a specific set of metabolic processes and how they partition their carbon and nutrient use. We also need to identify the factors governing these activities and if they result in feedback mechanisms that alter the growth activity and interaction between primary producers and microorganisms. By determining how different groups of microorganisms respond to individual environmental conditions by allocating carbon and nutrients to production of biomass, CO₂ and other products, a mechanistic as well as quantitative understanding of formation and decomposition of organic matter and the production and consumption of greenhouse gases can be achieved. In this Research Topic supported by the Swedish research councils programme Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services in a Changing Landscape BECC we intend to promote this alternative framework to address how cycling of carbon and nutrients will be altered in a changing environment from the first principle mechanisms that drive them namely the ecology physiology and biogeography of microorganisms and on up to emerging global biogeochemical patterns This novel and unconventional approach has the potential to generate fresh insights that can open up new horizons and stimulate rapid conceptual development in our basic understanding of the regulating factors for global biogeochemical cycles The vision for the research topic is to facilitate such progress by bringing together leading scientists as proponents of several disciplines By bridging Microbial Ecology and Biogeochemistry connecting microbial activities at the micro scale to carbon fluxes at the ecosystem scale and linking above and belowground ecosystem functioning we can leap forward from the current understanding of the global biogeochemical cycles Ibadan Journal of the Social Sciences ,2012 Canadian Journal of Fisheries and Aquatic Sciences ,2014
