Directions: Read about the development and relationships in American government. Then, add the year each event took place and briefly describe it.

The idea of a republic is a form of government in which the citizens elect representatives to make laws and run the government. This is the foundation of American government. The first step was the Declaration of Independence in 1776, which declared the colonies' independence from Britain. This was followed by the Constitution in 1787, which established the framework for the federal government. The Bill of Rights in 1791 added the first ten amendments to the Constitution, protecting the rights of citizens.
