Jonathan Bate

Life Isn't All Ha Ha Hee Hee:

Life Isn't All Ha Ha Hee Hee Meera Syal, 2001-06-02 An Indian Waiting to Exhale this hilarious and moving new novel by the award winning author of Anita and Me is the indelible portrait of a group of Indian women living in London and what happens when one of them makes a documentary starring the other two

Black British Literature Mark Stein, 2004 In this fascinating book Mark Stein examines black British literature centering on a body of work created by British based writers with African South Asian or Caribbean cultural backgrounds Linking black British literature to the bildungsroman genre this study examines the transformative potential inscribed in and induced by a heterogeneous body of texts Capitalizing on their plural cultural attachments these texts portray and purvey the transformation of post imperial Britain Stein locates his wide ranging analysis in both a historical and a literary context He argues that a cross cultural and interdisciplinary approach is essential to understanding post colonial culture and society The book relates black British literature to ongoing debates about cultural diversity and thereby offers a way of reading a highly popular but as yet relatively uncharted field of cultural production With the collapse of its empire with large scale immigration from former colonies and with ever increasing cultural diversity Britain underwent a fundamental makeover in the second half of the twentieth century This volume cogently argues that black British literature is not only a commentator on and a reflector of this makeover but that it is simultaneously an agent that is integral to the processes of cultural and social change Conceptualizing the novel of transformation this comprehensive study of British black literature provides a compelling analytic framework for charting these processes

Diaspora and Multiculturalism Monika Fludernik, 2003 In postcolonial theory we have now reached a new stage in the succession of key concepts After the celebrations of hybridity in the work of Homi Bhabha and Gayatri Spivak it is now the concept of diaspora that has sparked animated debates among postcolonial critics This collection intervenes in the current discussion about the new diaspora by placing the rise of diaspora within the politics of multiculturalism and its supersession by a politics of difference and cultural rights theory The essays present recent developments in Jewish negotiations of diasporic tradition and experience discussing the reinterpretation of concepts of the old diaspora in late twentieth century British and American Jewish literature The second part of the volume comprises theoretical and critical essays on the South Asian diaspora and on multicultural settings between Australia Africa the Caribbean and North America The South Asian and Caribbean diasporas are compared to the Jewish prototype and contrasted with the Turkish diaspora in Germany All essays deal with literary reflections on and thematisations of the diasporic predicament

British Asian Fiction Neil Murphy, Wai-chew Sim, 2008 In this outstanding collection of essays editors Neil Murphy and Wai chew Sim seek not so much to demarcate the field of British Asian fiction but to offer due acknowledgment of the artistic merit of the works of selected authors and simultaneously register their cultural significance This volume demonstrates in situ the virtues of commentary that engages in a substantial manner with formal and aesthetic considerations even as it implicates the discourses of alterity that dominate contemporary cultural criticism. Additionally the essays delineate the complex subject positions explored by authors and texts and focus on the way writers negotiate the exigencies of their location within and between different social formations. If it is the case that British literature can no longer be discussed in monocultural terms because of the impact of the writers under consideration it is also the case that the diverse trans cultural positions they explore are often less specified than proclaimed. Addressing difference, commensurability and form related notions of truth content these essays enlarge our understanding of the range of British and affiliated identities as well as the cultural contexts from which they arose.

Working as academics and critics from Singapore a useful vantage point Murphy and Sim have extended the parameters of British Asian to include not just writers from South Asia as is traditionally the case but writers whose parents or who themselves have migrated to Britain from other regions of Asia for example Japan Hong Kong and Malaysia. This initiative has made it possible for professors Murphy and Sim to bring together first an interestingly varied group of authors among them those who came to prominence in the 1980s Salman Rushdie Timothy Mo Kazuo Ishiguro as well as their younger contemporaries Meera Syal Romesh Gunesekera Monica Ali Hari Kunzru Ooi Yang May and second a broad and diverse range of novels that span Timothy Mo's Sour Sweet 1982 and Tariq Ali's A Sultan in Palermo 2005 the fourth volume in his Islam quintet.

Shared Waters Stella Borg Barthet, 2009. The present volume contains general essays on unequal African Western academic exchange the state and structure of postcolonial studies representing male violence in Zimbabwe's wars parihaka in the poetic imagination of Aotearoa New Zealand Middle Eastern Nigerian Moroccan and diasporic Indian women's writing community in post Independence Maltese poetry in English key novels of the Portuguese colonies the TV series The Kumars at No 42 fictional representations of India the North in western Canadian writing and a pedagogy of African Canadian literature. As well as these there is a selection of poems from Malta by Daniel Massa Adrian Grima Norbert Bugeja Immanuel Mifsud and Maria Grech Ganado and essays providing close readings of works by the following authors and filmmakers Thea Astley George Elliott Clarke Alan Duff Francis Ebejer Lorena Gale Romesh Gunesekera Sahar Khal fah Anthony Minghella Michael Ondaatje Caryl Phillips Edgar Allan Poe Salman Rushdie Ghadah al Samman Meera Syal Lee Tamahori. Global Fragments Anke Bartels, Dirk Wiemann, 2007. While the world seems to be getting ever smaller and globalization has become the ubiquitous buzz word regionalism and fragmentation also abound. This might be due to the fact that far from being the alleged production of cultural homogeneity the global is constantly re defined and altered through the local. This tension pervading much of contemporary culture has an obvious special relevance for the new varieties of English and the literature published in English world wide Postcolonial literatures exist at the interface of English as a hegemonic medium and its many national regional and local competitors that transform it in the new English literatures Thus any exploration of a globalization of cultures has to take into account the fact that culture is a complex field characterized by hybridization plurality and difference But while global or transnational cultures may allow for a new cosmopolitanism that produces ever changing fluid identities they do not give rise to an egalitarian global village an asymmetry between centre and periphery remains largely intact albeit along new parameters The essays collected in this volume offer readings of literary theoretical and filmic texts from the postcolonial world These texts are read as attempts to articulate the global with the local from a perspective of immersion in the actual diversity of life worlds focusing on such issues as consumption identity politics and modes of affiliation In this sense they are global fragments locally refracted figurations of an experience of world wide interconnectedness

Indian Literature and the World Rossella Ciocca, Neelam Srivastava, 2017-05-09 This book is about the most vibrant yet under studied aspects of Indian writing today It examines multilingualism current debates on postcolonial versus world literature the impact of translation on an Indian literary canon and Indian authors engagement with the public sphere The essays cover political activism and the North East Tribal novel the role of work in the contemporary Indian fictional imaginary history as felt and reconceived by the acclaimed Hindi author Krishna Sobti Bombay fictions the Dalit autobiography in translation and its problematic international success development ecocriticism and activist literature casteism and access to literacy in the South and gender and diaspora as dominant themes in writing from and about the subcontinent Troubling Eurocentric genre distinctions and the split between citizen and subject the collection approaches Indian literature from the perspective of its constant interactions between private and public narratives thereby proposing a method of reading Indian texts that goes beyond their habitual postcolonial identifications as national allegories
