Trickling filters are found in about 50% of the operating wastewater treatment systems owned by the U S Army and more likely for any new construction Control of nitrogen particularly ammonia in wastewater effluents is a growing necessity Ammonia can be removed in trickling filters but the process is temperature dependent This study combined an intensive literature review with data collection at full scale and pilot scale systems These results are presented and evaluated A liquid temperature of at least 7 C is necessary in the filter bed for effective ammonia removal and a separate single purpose filter bed dedicated for nitrification is recommended when significant ammonia removal is required at cold regions locations Criteria and equations are derived for future cold region system designs Author The Legislative Manual of the State of Wisconsin ,1881 TCH RPT WRITG TODAY IRM 9ED RIORDAN,2005
