governance and firm characteristics with Risk Weighted Capital Adequacy Ratio RWCAR of full fledged Islamic Banks in Malaysia The motivation for the study is to seek whether the RWCAR of Islamic banks is influenced by the Corporate Governance and Firm Characteristics variables post 2008 global financial crisis Descriptive statistics were presented and correlation using Pearsons Model Correlation Coefficient PMCC was observed and analyzed The findings reveal that Corporate Governance has no direct relationship with the RWCAR of Islamic banks in Malaysia Instead firm characteristics variables such as Total Financing Assets and Effective Foreign Ownership have a strong relationship with RWCAR

Islamic Finance and Global Crisis Hussein Elasrag, 2018-08-12 According to some Islamic finance is a cure for the international financial crisis and Islamic finance can strengthen its position in the international market as investors and companies seek alternative sources of finance Other economists argue that Islamic finance is another way of forming financial transactions It is not a completely different financial system I am trying to focus on the main causes and effects of the current financial crisis and the economic crisis In addition the belief that Islamic finance and its future is a real alternative to the discussion of the global financial system

The Stability of Islamic Finance Hossein Askari, Zamir Iqbal, Nouredine Krichenne, Abbas Mirakhor, 2011-11-09 The Stability of Islamic Finance main focus is on the question of the sources of financial instability which seems inherent in the conventional system As a core component of this focus the book will consider episodes of turbulence and instability in a historical context recalling the occurrence of such events from mid 19th century to the present It will present various theoretical explanations along with solutions and alternative financial systems that avoid instability provided by various scholars dating back to mid 19th century to present The book then will present and discuss the architecture of an Islamic financial system and show that at its core this system shares many characteristics of an stable financial system proposed by Western scholars throughout history to avoid the inherent instability of the present dominant system Particular emphasis will be placed on the present financial crisis and its causes as well the financial crisis of the 1997 in Southeast Asia Russia and Latin America relating these episodes to the fundamental features of the dominant system The debt crisis of the low income countries will also be part of this discussion It will then argue that these crises could be mitigated under an Islamic system or any other system with similar architecture

Global Financial Crisis (GFC) and Growth of Islamic Finance Muhammad Ayub, 2019 The worldview of Islamic economics that emerged in the modern age in the 20th century AD after decolonisation of the Muslim world has witnessed practical manifestations particularly in the areas of banking and finance Islamic banking and finance is now a part and parcel of the global finance being discussed and applied at national multilateral and international levels According to the Standard and Poor's report of 2009 assets of the top 500 Islamic banks expanded by 28.6 per cent while many of the world's financial systems were deleveraging As reported in the Global Islamic Finance Report April 2012 Islamic finance developed during the past decade at an average rate of more than 30 percent per year against the traditional finance persistently caught up in one or the other crises It is still tiny compared with the conventional finance but it s a substantial number all the more impressive given that Islamic financial institutions IFIs have only been back on the scene for three decades Until about 1570 most of the lending in the world was based on profit share says Mohamed Ariff professor of finance at Bond University After about 500 years Islamic finance is undergoing something of a renaissance Professors Kerrie Sadiq and Ann Black of the Queensland University of Technology wrote in a paper published in April this year Given such statistics it is suggested that Islamic finance can contribute to global financial stability It is projected by 2020 the Muslim world will be doing 50 per cent of its banking with Islamic institutions The growth has been broad based to encompass all major areas and sectors including commercial and investment banking Takaful corporate and public sector financing fund management money and capital markets micro SME and trust financing and last but not the least hedging techniques credit risk securitization and other financial derivatives

The Global Financial Crisis and Islamic Finance M. Kabir Hassan, 2018 The conventional view holds that the current global financial crisis was caused by extraordinarily high liquidity reckless lending practices and rapid pace of financial engineering which created complex and opaque financial instruments used for risk transfer There was break down of lender-borrower relationship informational problems caused by lack of transparency in asset market prices particularly in the market for structured credit instruments There was outdated lax or absent regulatory supervisory oversight faulty risk management and accounting models and the emergence of an incentive structure that not only encouraged excessive risk taking but also created a complicit coalition of financial institutions real estate developers and appraisers insurance companies and credit rating agencies whose actions led to a deliberate under pricing of risk Such crisis would not have occurred under an Islamic financial system due to the fact that most if not all of the factors that have caused or contributed to the development and the spread of the crisis are not allowed under the rules and guidance of Shariah The current global financial crisis is largely seen as a real test of the resilience of the Islamic financial services industry and its ability to present itself as a more reliable alternative to the conventional financial system
