is Stevenson's mother's maiden name. His parents have recently died and he is out to make his way in the world. He is given a letter by the minister of Essendean, Mr Campbell, to be delivered to the House of Shaws in Cramond where David's uncle Ebenezer Balfour lives. On his journey, David asks many people where the House of Shaws is and all of them speak of it darkly as a place of fear and evil. David arrives at the ominous House of Shaws and is confronted by his paranoid Uncle Ebenezer who is armed with a blunderbuss. His uncle is also miserly, living on parritch and small ale, and the House of Shaws itself is partially unfinished and somewhat ruinous. David is allowed to stay and soon discovers evidence that his father may have been older than his uncle, thus making David the rightful heir to the estate. Ebenezer asks David to get a chest from the top of a tower in the house but refuses to provide a lamp or candle. David is forced to scale the stairs in the dark and realizes that not only is the tower unfinished in some places but the steps simply end abruptly and fall into an abyss. David concludes that his uncle intended for him to have an accident so as not to have to give over his nephew's inheritance. David confronts his uncle who promises to tell David the whole story of his father the next morning. A ship's cabin boy, Ransome, arrives the next day and tells Ebenezer that Captain Hoseason of the brig Covenant needs to meet him to discuss business. Ebenezer takes David to a pier on the Firth of Forth where Hoseason awaits and David makes the mistake of leaving his uncle alone with the captain while he visits the shore with Ransome. Hoseason later offers to take them on board the brig briefly and David complies only to see his uncle returning to shore alone in a skiff. David is then immediately struck senseless.
