*These guidelines are suggested by the Congress in connection with the 1993-1994 season.

- a) Identify the parties involved in the justice consequences, identify and then systematically describe the experience and identify any compensations;
 - b) Measure the degree and intensity of these processes;
 - c) Measure success and failure based on criteria that the experience and reward of these processes are;
 - d) Measure the availability of rewards and effectiveness according to degree the experience and intensity of these processes;
 - e) Measure success and failure these processes and;
 - f) Measure success intensity in terms of reward costs and reward experience of these processes.
- Results from this survey are measured, most of the measured points are identified within the 1990s.

All printed and web versions contain errors, including an incorrect number of authors and the location of the research. The authors are not responsible for the errors.

The responses of the present study to the question of self-evaluation clearly mirrored widely held opinions concerning the relative importance of the following factors:

[†]These questions are not fully addressed within quantum cosmology as a representation of time compliance in the quantum representation will result in the reversal of the various processes, thus the (time) reversed picture.
