More Than Passion A Tale Of Two Beasts:

More Than Passion Kristye Smith, 2014-02-12 Jacob Stone was a light that crept in a dark room the sunshine that set warmth over chilled flesh a being that could cause skin prickles from fear like anticipating an action point in a horror movie A man that could make you feel like you were in the presence of God and Satan at the same moment A 30 year old county Sheriff s Deputy in Belmont NC He s learned how rough life can get What life can offer and what seems to be untouchable It wasn t until an off chance at a night out with his best friend did he ever think his life could be complete Beth had spent young years in a marriage laced with abuse At twenty years old she had felt too old for her age She had become pregnant by a man incapable of love But the baby had passed away before birth Acceptance had settled into her soul that she deserved her heart ache her empty dark desires her needs and a loveless marriage It wasn t until she had hit her rock bottom and depression did she begin to want to really live With the help of her best friend Macy she finally packed her belongings and left for good It had been a lonely two years that had gone by in colors of black white and grey Beth decided it was her time finally her time to explore in what would make her happy To feed her desires that were starving And after seeing Jacob for the first time in months she would be free to do just that She knew it wasn t just her flesh that would feed off of him but her heart would also She would hang in the balance of pleasure pain and solace

The Dangers of Interpretation Ilona Treitel, 2019-08-22 First published in 1996 This comparative study investigates thematic and technical similarities in the works of the two authors who shared a cultural heritage and achieved comparable status in their separate literary traditions Drawing upon theories by Bloom Bakhtin and Lacan the book examines ways in which Henry James and Thomas Mann treat the creative artist and analyze the creative and interpretive processes in their fiction The texts covered range from early works to their great modern novels The Golden Bowl and Doctor Faustus To a great extent the similarities between the works stem from the authors preoccupation with artistic responsibility Adopting Bloom s claim that the creative activity is an interpretive one and that the reader as well as the writer interprets a text into being the book also investigates the reader s responsibility in confronting the dilemmas challenging James and Mann s artist figures Such challenges are the dangers of interpretation discussed in this book Index Bibliography
