Mathematic November 2014 Question Paper And Memorandum:

Privacy and Identity Management. Time for a Revolution? David Aspinall, Jan Camenisch, Marit Hansen, Simone Fischer-Hübner, Charles Raab, 2016-07-20 This book contains a range of keynote papers and submitted papers presented at the 10th IFIP WG 9.2.9.5.9.6.11.7.11.4.11.6 SIG 9.2.2 International Summer School held in Edinburgh UK in August 2015. The 14 revised full papers included in this volume were carefully selected from a total of 43 submissions and were subject to a two step review process. In addition the volume contains 4 invited keynote papers. The papers cover a wide range of topics: cloud computing, privacy enhancing technologies, accountability, measuring privacy and understanding risks, the future of privacy and data protection, regulation, the US privacy perspective, privacy and security, the PRISMS Decision System, engineering privacy, cryptography, surveillance, identity management, the European General Data Protection Regulation, framework, communicating privacy issues to the general population, smart technologies, technology users, privacy preferences, sensitive applications, collaboration between humans and machines, and privacy and ethics. Analyzing the Role of Citizen Science in Modern Research Ceccaroni, Luigi, Piera, Jaume, 2016-10-25 As the need for sustainable development practices around the world continues to grow, it has become imperative for citizens to become actively engaged in the global transition. By evaluating data collected from various global programs, researchers are able to identify strategies and challenges in implementing civic engagement initiatives. Analyzing the Role of Citizen Science in Modern Research focuses on analyzing data on current initiatives and best practices in citizen engagement and education programs across various disciplines. Highlighting emergent research and application techniques within citizen science initiatives, this publication appeals to academicians, researchers, policy makers, government officials, technology developers, advanced level students, and program developers interested in launching or improving citizen science programs across the globe. Equivalence Amanda L. Golbeck, 2017-04-28 Equivalence Elizabeth L. Scott at Berkeley is the compelling story of one pioneering statistician's relentless twenty year effort to promote the status of women in academe and science. Part biography and part microhistory, the book provides the context and background to understand Scott's masterfulness at using statistics to help solve societal problems. In addition to being one of the first researchers to work at the interface of astronomy and statistics and an early practitioner of statistics using high speed computers, Scott worked on an impressively broad range of questions in science, from whether cloud seeding actually works to whether ozone depletion causes skin cancer. Later in her career, Scott became swept up in the academic women's movement. She used her well developed scientific research skills together with the advocacy skills she had honed in such activities as raising funds for Martin Luther King Jr and keeping Free Speech Movement students out of jail toward policy making that would improve the condition of the academic workforce for women. The book invites the reader into Scott's universe, a window of inspiration made possible by the fact that she saved and dated every piece of paper that came across her desk. Reflections on Programming Systems Liesbeth De Mol, Giuseppe

Primiero,2019-01-10 This book presents a historical and philosophical analysis of programming systems intended as large computational systems like for instance operating systems programmed to control processes The introduction to the volume emphasizes the contemporary need of providing a foundational analysis of such systems rooted in a broader historical and philosophical discussion The different chapters are grouped around three major themes The first concerns the early history of large systems developed against the background of issues related to the growing semantic gap between hardware and code The second revisits the fundamental issue of complexity of large systems dealt with by the use of formal methods and the development of grand designs like Unix Finally a third part considers several issues related to programming systems in the real world including chapters on aesthetical ethical and political issues This book will interest researchers from a diversity of backgrounds It will appeal to historians philosophers as well as logicians and computer scientists who want to engage with topics relevant to the history and philosophy of programming and more specifically the role of programming systems in the foundations of computing

How We Teach Science John L. Rudolph,2019-06-01 Despite an enduring belief that science should be taught there has been no enduring consensus about how or why This is especially true when it comes to teaching scientific process John Rudolph shows that how we think about and teach science will either sustain or thwart future innovation and determine how science is perceived by the public

Sand, Snow, and Stardust Gretchen Heefner,2025-05-05 A vivid tour of US military efforts to understand survive and command harsh environments worldwide and beyond Deserts the Arctic outer space these extreme environments are often seen as inhospitable places at the edges of our maps But from the 1940s through the 1960s spurred by the diverse and unfamiliar regions the US military had navigated during World War II the United States defense establishment took a keen interest in these places dispatching troops to the Aleutian Islands North Africa the South Pacific and beyond To preserve the country s status as a superpower after the war to pave runways and build bridges engineers had to understand and then conquer dunes permafrost and even the surface of the moon Sand Snow and Stardust explores how the US military generated a new understanding of these environments and attempted to master them intending to cement America s planetary power Operating in these regions depended as much on scientific and cultural knowledge as on military expertise and technology From General George S Patton learning the hard way that the desert is not always hot to the challenges of constructing a scientific research base under the Arctic ice to the sheer implausibility of modeling Martian environments on Earth Gretchen Heefner takes us on a wry expedition into the extremes and introduces us to the people who have shaped our insight into these extraordinary environments Even decades after the first manned space flight plans for human space exploration and extraplanetary colonization are still based on what we know about stark habitats on Earth An entertaining survey of the relationship between environmental history and military might Sand Snow and Stardust also serves as a warning about the further transformation of the planet whether through desertification melting ice caps or attempts to escape it entirely U.S. Government Research & Development Reports ,1971 Government Reports Announcements & Index ,1994 Who's who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges Henry Pettus Randall,1977
