Executive Summary

Every year, the Joint Admission Board (JAB) is tasked to determine those students who are expected to join various Kenyan public universities under the government sponsorship scheme. This exercise is usually extensive because of the large number of qualified students compared to the very limited number of slots at various institutions and the shortage of funding from the government. Further, this is made complex by the fact that the selections are done against a predefined cluster subjects vis a vis the student's preferred and applied for academic courses. Minimum requirements exist for each course and only students having the prescribed grades in specific subjects are eligible to join that course. Due to this, students are often admitted to courses they consider irrelevant to their career prospects and not their preferred choices.

This process is tiresome, costly, and prone to bias, errors, or favour, leading to disadvantaging innocent students. This paper examines the potential use of artificial neural networks at the JAB for the process of selecting students for university courses. Based on the fact that Artificial Neural Networks (ANNs) have been tested and used in classification, the paper explains how a trained neural network can be used to perform the students' placement effectively and efficiently. JAB will be able, therefore, to undertake the students' placement thoroughly and be able to accomplish it with minimal wastage of time and resources respectively without having to utilise unnecessary effort. The paper outlines how the various metrics can be coded and used as input to the ANNs. Ultimately, the paper underscores the various merits that would accompany the adoption of this technique. By making use of neural networks in the university career choices, student placement at JAB will enhance the chances of students being placed into courses they prefer as part of their career choice. This is likely to motivate the students, making them work harder and leading to improved performance and improved completion rate. The ANN application may also reduce the cost spend on the application processing and the time the applicants have to wait for the outcome. The ANN application could further increase the chances of high quality applicants getting admission to career courses for which they qualify.

Ibadan at Fifty, 1948-1998 B. A. Mojuetan,2000 This volume presents fifty years of the University of Ibadan Nigeria s oldest and pre eminent university from its inception as a college of the University of London The contributors are various existing and retired faculty professors heads of the university s libraries publishing house and printing press from the university s administration and former students The essays are diverse and specific in their handling of the university s history but all broadly document the common experience of the university s decline and the enormous gulf between the present state of the university and the kind of institution its creators and ambassadors believe it should be They reflect upon the earlier role of the university as an institutional of international renown and influential in shaping Nigeria s history and the present state of depleted academic departments and inadequate libraries and they describe how the university is suffering from the Africa wide brain drain and a chronic lack of funding The essays further demonstrate how the historical development of the university has largely rested upon the mostly detrimental and at times disastrous attitude and actions of the Nigerian State and that the history of the university is inseparable from the history of the country the university having become the intellectual equivalent of a marginalised Third World economy The overall picture is not wholly one of gloom however The contributors also propose directions the university may pursue to reverse the decline and this publication itself represents a spirited rear guard action California Election Laws California,1903 Election Laws of California ...
