Education for Employability (Volume 2)

Joy Higgs, Will Letts, Geoffrey Crisp, 2019-08-12 We often look back at changing trends in higher education and call them bandwagons temporary fads that everyone rushes to be part of and jump on While much of the hype and jargon of The Employability Agenda may fade from the tip of our tongues or perhaps be subsumed into the norm in the mid future there are two fundamental changes that will not the digital revolution embedded in changing work and economic practices and the re globalisation of the world that this and other politico economic changes have brought about These will continue to be part of how we live and work so tertiary education will need to take its part in supporting employ ability far beyond either the timing or scope of preparation for initial employment Employability is important to local national and international labour market contexts parameters and policies As well as impacting workforces employability is an essential characteristic of workers It is very important that employability is understood and enacted as personal employability not just employment of individuals We have found that employability is defined as much if not more by mindset rather than skillset Part of this mindset involves recognising the unknowns of future work and an even bigger part is recognising our responsibilities as workers and educators lies in shaping our own employability and that of the novice learners and workers in our spaces of influence and communities of practice In Education for Employability Volume 2 Learning for Future Possibilities we continue on from the big agenda discussions of Education for Employability Volume 1 The Employability Agenda to explore education for employability in a variety of spaces in the context of higher education as an entrance into the workforce in joining communities of practice and in the lifelong pursuit of employability preparing people for a portfolio of careers rather than a job for life These two books show how educational leaders educators industry partners and thought leaders are imagining and addressing the challenges posed by the current and future changes facing our work practices and workplaces

Education in Indigenous, Nomadic and Travelling Communities Rosarii Griffin, 2014-06-26 Education in Indigenous Nomadic and Travelling Communities provides a thorough examination of up to date case studies of educational provision to travelling communities and indigenous people in their homelands or in host countries Education is usually under utilised during phases of transition In many instances indigenous groups and travelling people including nomads do not have educational opportunities equal to that of their settled counterpart citizens For such groups this results in early school leaving high school drop out rates low school attendance and low success rates Indeed indigenous traveling and nomadic groups often begin their working life at an early age and often experience difficulties penetrating the formal employment arena In this volume international researchers analyse the internal and external factors affecting educational provision to travelling nomadic and indigenous groups A comparative examination of the issues is enabled through the global case studies including the Roma people in Europe indigenous groups in Malaysia the Gypsies of England the Travellers of Ireland the Sami nomadic people of Scandinavia and Russia as well as the Amazonian Indians of Latin America      Beneath the Smile: Strength and Struggle in Nigeria Dr. Nouridin Melo, 2025-05-27 Nigeria is a land of contradictions where laughter masks pain faith defies despair and resilience thrives amid systemic failure In Beneath the Smile Strength and Struggle in Nigeria Dr Nouridin Melo unveils the psychological fortitude of a people who have turned survival into an art form From the scars of colonialism to the chaos of modern governance Nigerians have mastered the delicate balance of endurance and resistance This groundbreaking work dissects the unspoken strategies that fuel their perseverance the Pentecostal pastor who preaches hope as therapy the market woman who hustles with unwavering optimism the youth activist who channels rage into revolution Through rich storytelling and incisive analysis Melo exposes the paradox of Nigerian resilience how suffering and smiling can be both a coping mechanism and a silent scream for change He reveals the hidden costs of strength the communal bonds that heal and the cultural defiance that keeps hope alive in a nation perpetually on the brink More than a study this book is a revelation It challenges Western psychology's narrow frameworks offering instead an Afrocentric vision of mental fortitude rooted in faith family and unyielding creativity For anyone seeking to understand Nigeria or the human capacity to thrive against all odds Beneath the Smile is essential reading A testament to the power of the human spirit A call to honor resilience without romanticizing struggle A masterful blend of scholarship and soul Dr Melo captures Nigeria's heartbeat with precision and compassion Available now Discover the psychology of a nation that refuses to be broken 2025 Dr Nouridin Melo All Rights Reserved      Building STEM Skills Through Environmental Education Schroth, Stephen T., Daniels, Janese, 2020-09-18 Environmental studies provide an ideal opportunity for children of any age to build critical and creative thinking skills while also building skills in science technology engineering and mathematics STEM Exploring issues related to sustainability and environmental concerns permits learners to identify problems develop research questions gather and analyze data develop possible solutions and disseminate this information to others Despite the advantages of green education and its ability to improve student achievement there is a gap in understanding the interplay between curriculum and instruction and how this affects teaching and learning Building STEM Skills Through Environmental Education is an essential publication that addresses gaps in the understanding of green education and offers educators meaningful and comprehensive examples of environmental and sustainability education in the Pre K through secondary grade levels The book offers a unique combination of foundational understanding of green education and chapters that illustrate the principles and impact of green education across grade levels content areas assessment systems instructional strategies technology and other related topics It is ideally designed for educators curriculum developers instructional designers advocates policymakers researchers academicians and students      Hybrid Learning and Continuing Education Simon K.S.
