

Reciprocating internal combustion engines — Graphical symbols

1 Scope

This International Standard specifies graphical symbols for operator controls, gauges, tell-tale indicators and instructions for reciprocating internal combustion (RIC) engines to provide necessary information on their use and operation.

It is applicable to RIC engines for land, rail traction and marine use, excluding engines used to propel road vehicles and aircraft.

2 Normative references

The following standards contain provisions which, through reference in this text, constitute provisions of this International Standard. At the time of publication, the editions indicated were valid. All standards are subject to revision, and parties to agreements based on this International Standard are encouraged to investigate the possibility of applying the most recent editions of the standards indicated below. Members of IEC and ISO maintain registers of currently valid International Standards.

ISO 3481-1:1988, General principles for the creation of graphical symbols — Part 1: Graphical symbols for use on equipment.

ISO 3864:1984, Safety colours and safety signs.

IEC 73:1991, Coding of indicating devices and actuators by colours and supplementary means.

3 Definitions

For the purposes of this International Standard, the following definitions apply.

3.1 basic graphical symbol: Symbol used individually or in combination to make a composite symbol.

3.2 composite symbol: Symbol made from combinations of symbol elements.

4 General

4.1 Symbols shall be as shown in clauses 5 to 7 of this International Standard. In general, symbols are shown in outline form. Where necessary for legibility when reduced to a small size, enclosed areas within symbols or symbol elements may be filled in.

4.2 The symbols included in clause 5 are basic symbols which may be used for general application as well as to create composite symbols.

4.3 The composite symbols included in clauses 6 and 7 are developed using basic symbols from clause 5 as elements where applicable to provide families of symbols associated with functions and systems.

4.4 As required, additional composite symbols may be developed using the basic symbols from clause 5, provided that the characteristics specified in ISO 3481-1 are maintained.

4.5 Limitations inherent in some reproduction and display technologies may require increased line thickness or other minor modifications of symbols. Such modifications are acceptable provided the symbol remains unchanged in its basic graphical elements, and easily discernible by the operator.
