N3 Industrial 2014 Question Paper:

ICT Investment for Energy Use in the Industrial Sectors Nabaz T. Khayyat, 2017-06-20 This book investigates the impact of production input factors on the market consumer and producer energy demand characteristics in 30 industrial sectors for South Korea over the period 1980-2009 and for Japan over the period 1973-2006 with special emphasis placed on the effects of ICT investment on the demand for energy. A dynamic factor demand model is developed accounting for the adjustment costs that are defined in terms of forgone output from current production. It addresses four key aspects of production and energy demand in manufacturing: first it establishes the various relationships between different factors of production. Second it investigates whether the energy demand in the industrial sectors in South Korea would be decreased or increased by substituting complementing with other input factors such as ICT capital and labor. Third it looks at sources of growth in the industrial sectors through decomposing the Divisia index based total factor productivity (TFP). Finally it provides appropriate policy recommendations based on these findings. The results of this study may provide industrial sectors stakeholders and environmental and industrial policy makers with a flexible model that has the capacity to assess outcomes of various policies under certain scenarios. The factor demand methodology described in this book is very advanced and up to date. It can be used when teaching advanced graduate courses and in empirically advanced research. Therefore it is highly relevant in both teaching as a main or supplementary text and in particular as a reference handbook in conducting empirical research. The focus on ICT effects on energy use makes this book an important addition to the existing literature on industrial development. Proceedings of the First International Scientific Conference "Intelligent Information Technologies for Industry" (IITI'16) Ajith Abraham, Sergey Kovalev, Valery Tarasov, Václav Snášel, 2016-05-10 This volume of Advances in Intelligent Systems and Computing contains papers presented in the main track of IITI 2016, the First International Conference on Intelligent Information Technologies for Industry, held in May 16-21 in Sochi, Russia. Hensley,2025-06-04 A study of how writers from the early phases of our prolonged climate emergency used aesthetic strategies to redefine the category of action What does it feel like to live helplessly in a world that is coming undone Nathan Hensley turns to Victorian literature to uncover a prehistory of this deeply contemporary sense of powerlessness For many in nineteenth century Britain their world seemed so scarred by human rapacity that restoring it seemed beyond the powers of any one individual Like

George Eliot's characters in Middlemarch or the doomed lovers of Wuthering Heights observers of the gathering carbon economy felt themselves ensnared by interlocked and broken systems In the face of damage so vast and apparently irreversible what could possibly be done To answer this question Hensley shows that nineteenth century writers and artists devised new ways to understand action and hope They rescaled action away from the grandly heroic and toward minor adjustments and collaborative interventions They turned away from logical proofs and direct argumentation and instead called on aesthetic technologies like sonnets and fractured lyrics watercolor sketches and vast multiplot novels finding scope for action not at the level of the theme or the thesis but in gestures and details Ranging from J M W Turner's painterly technique to Emily Brontë's dreamlike fragments and reading along the way works by Alfred Lord Tennyson H G Wells Lewis Carroll Gerard Manley Hopkins William Berryman Charlotte Brontë George Eliot and Christina Rossetti Hensley's study makes an important contribution to Victorian studies and the environmental humanities
