TITLE

Won't You Be My Neighbor: My Moment as a Leader

INTRO

The room was filled with the gentle hum of microphones and video cameras, cut only by the occasional cough or cleared throat. It was easy to feel out of place in this room full of wood furniture, leather seats, and powerful men capable of changing not just my life, but an entire sector of television programming as we knew it. I had never thought of myself as a leader, but I also knew that this was about something bigger than me, something that I could actually influence.

I took a deep breath and began to talk. I wasn't known to have a particularly commanding or powerful voice, but people always seemed to listen, including these men with their name placards and tall seats. They had been ready to cut funding for public broadcasting, which included programming that they had never seen. I was simply someone who lived in a neighborhood and cared about children's education, beyond just math and reading. All I could do was be honest.

BODY

- Write a narrative that uses your own voice and style
- Be humble, but don't be down on yourself

CONCLUSION

To me, leadership is about connection. I know that I have a voice and an immense dedication to emotional intelligence in children. My ability to focus on other people goes hand-in-hand with my ability to speak through a tiger puppet. Both are about closing gaps and bringing people closer to a basic understanding. I hope to use my leadership abilities within the field of psychology to build more connections between people and communities.

Webber, 2023-03-23 This book addresses the critical gaps among understandings of teacher leadership across organizational and cultural contexts It challenges the use of the term teacher leadership as if there is a widely shared understanding of what it is and what it means for exercising influence and making decisions The book describes how implicit meanings and competing assumptions about teacher leadership may contribute to uncertainty and confusion in school communities The authors caution against the incorporation of teacher leadership in international policy making discussions without adequate consideration of contextual organizational historical and cultural differences that may lead to school community members struggling to accommodate the concept or worse ignoring other frameworks for facilitating more culturally appropriate decision making This book shares the findings of research conducted in several North American European African Latin American and Australasian contexts as part of the International Study of Teacher Leadership Study findings are used to posit contextualized conceptualizations of teacher leadership and to offer a perspective for positioning researchers and practitioners in the international teacher leadership discourse New leadership models for the VUCA world. Five leadership approaches to cope with uncertainty Thorsten Mannherz, 2017-10-18 Seminar paper from the year 2017 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 1 3 University of applied sciences Cologne course Soft skills Leadership Qualities language English abstract This paper examines new leadership models for the VUCA world Nowadays companies have to deal with unknown competition from everywhere around the world This has changed business worlds into worlds of volatility uncertainty complexity and ambiguity VUCA The study begins by investigating the aforementioned VUCA attributes within micro and macro economic business environments Following five models for leadership in the VUCA world are described Afterwards it focuses on finding similarities between the previously described models As a result five important areas are defined that leaders have to focus on in order to stay competitive in the VUCA world These areas are Communication analysis flexibility team orientation and vision Over the last three decades globalization and progressive digitization drastically improved living and working conditions of many human beings around the world People have gained permanent access to knowledge over the internet customers can order products worldwide and former language barriers were dissolved by the introduction of software for instant language translations For many businesses these achievements came with several side effects For decades organizations were able to create reliable mid and long term strategic corporate plans as companies were aware of their local competition and upcoming product innovations In order to remain successful in the new VUCA world leaders have to adapt their leadership skills and behaviors to the new conditions

Requirements for the "modern" leader. Theory and personal reflection Bastian Ott,2022-02-07 Research Paper undergraduate from the year 2017 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 1 0 University of Applied Management language English abstract What characterizes a good leader in the 21st century To answer this question it is important to look at the circumstances under which leadership is practiced today Digitalization and social media are creating increased global competition in many industries In an HR report by the Institute for Employment and Employability IBE and Hays AG 80 percent of survey participants see managing change as the biggest challenge facing managers Leading under constant environmental change However the increasing complexity of work processes the perception of the role model function the creation of transparency and the work life balance which is increasingly coming into focus for employees also play a decisive role for good leadership in the 21st century Corporate profits should continue to grow while taking these new aspects into account This demands a great deal of tact from today s managers For example an open ear for the fears and wishes of employees The latter prefer the understanding comrade to the numbers driven manager Good managers are at the same time role models visionaries practitioners diagnosticians concept developers conflict managers designers leaders and top decision makers At the same time day to day operations are becoming less important for managers Only eleven percent of the participants in the HR study still see it as an important task for managers Personnel management is accorded greater importance than structural management But how do these two leadership styles differ

The Leadership Style of Yoshihiko Noda and Vladimir Putin Lennart Hellmann,2013-07-03 Research Paper undergraduate from the year 2013 in the subject Psychology Social Psychology grade 1 3 Leuphana Universit t L neburg course Communication and Leadership Asian and Western Perspectives language English abstract The paper The Leadership Style of Yoshihiko Noda and Vladimir Putin An Intercultural Comparison discusses the impact of different leadership styles in Russia and Japan from a western and asian perspective It outlines the major theories of leadership studies as well as certain aspects of intercultural findings In the comparison of the two leaders their background and culture are certain hints that on the one hand culture has and undisputable impact on a leaders behaviour however on the other hand a leader is able to surpass cultural boundaries

Leadership and Change Management Emily Lewis, 2017-01-10 Essay from the year 2014 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 88% course Conflict Specialists as Leaders language English abstract The pace of change is much greater today than it was a century ago and in order for organizations to be successful under these changing circumstances the presence of strong leadership is needed Because change is a natural and inevitable process in organizations as well as the way for organizational growth and success leaders should embrace change and assist others in the process Additionally effective change leadership involves addressing human needs as well as issues associated with the process However organizational change is underpinned by a vision and set of values which may or may not be shared by everyone The paper concludes that effective change management is a combined effort between leaders and employees which ensures that organizational change fits with the people in the organization and that everyone's needs are met The Leadership Quarterly, 2001 Why is leadership important for delivering successful projects? Leadership theories, methods and concepts Yasir Farabi, 2012-08-15 Essay from the year 2012 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance University of New England course Project Management language English abstract Leadership has long been considered as an essential success factor in business government and military environments However the optimal style of leadership in a particular organizational setting still remains unclear Increasing public scrutiny of leaders has also raised the question of what leadership style is to be put in action that can guarantee success Therefore the purpose of this report is to identify and analyse in what key ways leadership is important to delivering successful projects and also what leadership theories methods and concepts are most helpful in understanding effective project leadership With a view to achieving these objectives this report at first spots some key factors of effective leadership and then discusses few concepts that are momentous in delivering present day views of leadership The periphery of such undertaking is enormous and it is quite complex to capture an instant snap shot across a number of leadership strategies In order to react to the changing global environment leaders consistently modify their strategies and behaviours Therefore the paper has attempted to limit the depth of investigation across the various measurement criteria because of time and resource constraints Nonetheless these can be satisfactorily used for high level evaluation Travellers' Tales Roderick Neilsen, 2009-01-14 Most of the research into ELT has focused on its linguistic and methodological aspects which are based on Western scientific traditions The contributions and experiences of English language teachers themselves especially their work in overseas contexts have frequently been overlooked This volume aims to document the complexity of ELT as work in new global economic and cultural conditions and to explore how this complexity is realised in the everyday experiences of ELT teachers The development of ELT from the colonial experience to its current status as a global commodity is explored ELT is then situated in the discourses of globalisation specifically within Appadurai's theorisation of global flows of people images ideas technology and money or scapes Within this framework narratives are constructed from the experiences of

Native speaking English teachers These reveal much about the personal pedagogical and cultural dimensions of ELT work in non Centre countries and will contribute to a greater understanding of the intercultural dimensions of ELT for all those who work in it and in related educational fields

The historical importance of leadership traits. From trait theory to charismatic leadership Lea Graeser, 2021-09-29 Seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 1 3 University of Applied Sciences D sseldorf course Intercultural Management and Leadership language English abstract This paper focusses on the trait approach on leadership whereby this theory concentrates on the personal traits of leaders The trait theory was one of the first ones to study leadership Different developments within the past and present as well as a future outlook are explained and analysed The approach developed from the assumption that great leaders are born to the hypothesis that great leaders can be made when there is a need for that Successful leadership is extended to an interaction between the traits of a leader and the situation itself Today s relevant aspects of the theory are the Big Five Emotional Intelligence and Skills Leadership In this light this paper investigates future developments of leadership focussing on charismatic and visionary leadership Then it presents an evaluation of the trait approach its strengths and weaknesses and the importance of leadership traits for the future

Contextual Dimension of Women Leaders in Bangladesh and West Bengal Md. Mizanur Rahman, 2013-03-11 Scientific Essay from the year 2013 in the subject Politics Other International Politics Topics language English abstract It is an axiomatic fact that women leadership does not grow automatically rather it grows with the dynamic process of socio cultural development of the country Bangladesh and West Bengal having a traditional socio economic structure do not have regular and systematic process of political participation of women which is directly or indirectly linked to patriarchal values and kinship ties Despite that in the recent days numbers of women leaders at the grassroots level local government of both geographical areas have increased remarkably due to some change in the socio cultural contexts and dimensions Therefore it deserves academic analysis and interpretation to delve into the dynamics and process of socio cultural context that have contributed for the development of women leadership in both cases
