Multipliers of Change Wolf, Tobias, Niedermeier, Frank, Qin, Xia, Faaß, Marcel, Cheng, Ming Yu, Ong, Duu Sheng, Mustafa, Marzuki, Ewe, Hong Tat, Pillai, Stefanie, Ong, Sue Lyn, Abdul Rahman, Mohd Basyaruddin, Waswa, Fuchaka, Abenga, Elizabeth, Indede, Florence, Echeverría King, Luisa Fernanda, Acuña Paez, Katherine, Coronado Vargas, Carlos, Musa Alokpo, Dieudonné, Oulare, Kabiné, Randhahn, Solveig, Mawa, Michael, 2020-12-02 Higher Education Leadership and Management have become increasingly important throughout the years due to the complexities that have to be addressed by universities worldwide. This can be seen not only in professionalisation in fields such as faculty management or in areas of quality assurance and internationalisation but also in the need for exchange and training in academic leadership such as that of deans or study deans or of university leadership in general. The Dialogue on Innovative Higher Education Strategies DIES is addressing this need in emerging countries by building platforms of exchange and offering training courses. Not only is the programme supporting capacity building of human resources but it is also specifically focusing on inducing change within the universities such as introducing new instruments or tools in the area of quality assurance and internationalisation and addressing specific challenges or setting up new structures in the form of projects in the frame of the training. The National Multiplication Trainings Programme under DIES is further addressing the sustainability and multiplication of the DIES Programme that is alumni are enabled to implement capacity building in higher education leadership and management in their national context. The articles within this volume of the Potsdamer Beitr ge zur Hochschulforschung Potsdam Contributions to Higher Education Research analyse and share the experiences of such training programmes held in Colombia, Democratic Republic of Congo, Guinea, Malaysia, Kenya and Uganda. They all revolve around the best ways to address the needs and challenges in higher education leadership and management and in building capacities in these areas.

Vision Infinity for Food Security Shashi B. Sharma, John A. Wightman, 2015-09-04 A new perspective on the global food security situation and highlights the need for seeking a common vision and implementing global planning to define the manner in which the human species will manage its food security. The basic question of whether there is enough food is examined in general and then in some detail. The history of food production is reviewed in the hope that lessons can be learned from the past. But even after ten thousand years of experience we are not able to feed adequately about a third of our total population despite what statistics can be made to tell us. Intensive agriculture has stripped out the nutrients that support plant growth and marginalised extensive tracts of land. The global solution to feed the growing population has been and continues to be produce more food. Even during the last 30 years about 95 percent of global research investments have focused mainly on increasing productivity. However, about a third of the food produced sufficient to feed over two billion hungry people is lost or wasted in the food value chain. Climate change is another confounding factor that impinges on our discussions. Pests of all kinds continue to destroy food before and after it is harvested even though the technology to protect it is available. A huge amount of food is wasted in value chains particularly at the domestic level Global food production systems are exposed to unprecedented biosecurity risks posed by invasive harmful organisms and this trend is likely to further exacerbate as current approach to biosecurity is based on the notional premise that lines on maps and the legislation that goes with them is sufficient to halt epidemics Solutions include extending the number of cultivated plant and animal species to include those that can prosper in what are currently considered to be extreme environments
